Dear Newton,

Enclosed is a monograph I have just written which may interest you. It is not really a 'published' thing. We at the ANU are producing this series, largely to put Bob Meyer's work between covers; but the series is expanding now. I suppose you are in possession of other works in the series.

Did you know, or know of, Malcolm Rennie? He died a week ago, age 39. He was the best native-born logician Australia has produced, and also the best teacher of logic we've ever had. He personally taught most of the active logicians in this country: Giles, McKelvie, Martin, myself, and others. Logic in Australia is very recent: it probably more-or-less started in 1965 when Richard Routley and Len Goddard taught Malcolm and others in an M.A. course at University of New England.

Before that, there were only isolated researchers.
It is a very sad day for Australian logic.

Warmest Regards

Chris
